Los Angeles Zoo and Botanical Gardens	Wild for the Planet events: Every weekend in April, the Los Angeles Zoo hosts Wild for the Planet, a combined celebration of the spring season and Earth Month, a monthlong emphasis on sustainability and environmental stewardship. This fun, educational, and impactful event will feature an Earth Expo, twice daily animal feedings, hands-on springtime activity for children, spring photo ops, all-natural honey tastings, a book talk on May 1st with music legend and children's book author Ziggy Marley and his wife and collaborator, Orly Marley, and more. All activities except honey tastings are free with paid admission and for Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association members. Wild for the Planet features an Earth Expo where guests can learn about the impacts of stormwater runoff, coastal ecology, wetland science, environmental stewardship, and much more. Springtime activities include planting a California native plant to take home and grow at the Planting for Pollinators Station and learning some creative things you can do with recycled materials at the Upcycling Inspiration Lab. The Condor Station, open from 11 a.m. - 2 p.m., allows guests to step into the world of a wildlife biologist to learn firsthand about the effort to save critically endangered California condors, one of the Zoo's most successful conservation programs. The Los Angeles Beekeeper Association will be offering a honey tasting of six different honeys for an additional fee of $3.00.	Weekends from Saturday, April 2 to Sunday, May 1, 10 AM to 4 PM	https://www.lazoo.org/plan-your-visit/special-experiences/wild-for-the-planet/
